- Jennifer Aniston has always explained that she did not succumb to cosmetic surgery to erase the signs of the passing of time
- But it seems that the star has resorted to some interventions
- In any case, this is what a famous surgeon says

Last February, Jennifer Aniston had decided to lay her cards on the table. In fact, the actress spoke about her cosmetic surgery operations in the columns of the magazine InStyle. “If I had a nose operation, it was to put my nasal septum back in line and help me breathe better. Now I breathe much better and at night I sleep like a baby.”, she confided. If this intervention was beneficial to her, the star confided that she did not want to succumb to the lure of cosmetic surgery, particularly to erase the signs of passing time. “What I’ve seen are women trying to stay ageless. I’m glad I learned from their mistakes, because I’m not going to inject something in my face. When I see them, my heart hurts. I’m like, ‘God, if you only knew how much older you looked. They try to stop the passage of time, and we feel to what extent they do not have confidence in themselves. I don't judge people, but sometimes I would like to beg those I know who are about to do it not to touch their face."

Jennifer Aniston: viewers no longer recognize her

But now some are really wondering if Jennifer Aniston, aged 54, has not taken the plunge. Indeed, during her visit to Paris, the actress passed by the set of It's up to you. And viewers had a hard time recognizing her. Frozen face, no facial expression... “ She no longer has any expression on her face.”“This obsession with plastic surgery is a disaster...”, “She has aged Jennifer”, “ She doesn't look like anything anymore.” BotoxShame “or “She had Jennifer Aniston surgery? I feel like he's another person.” could we read on the social network.

According to this specialist, the actress succumbed to several interventions

There were therefore many criticisms. And the intervention of a specialized surgeon will not help things. Indeed, Dr. Sam Rizk, a cosmetic surgeon interviewed by the New YorkPost. And for him, there is no doubt, the actress has indeed had cosmetic surgery. “She definitely had surgery. On the cheeks, jowls and neck. And her eyes also look rejuvenated, and that's more than Botox. »

Operations to erase the effects of the passage of time

According to this expert, Jennifer Aniston suffered a “deep facelift”as well as a “blepharoplasty”. This is an operation to correct drooping eyelids. Regarding the deep facelift, the specialist indicates: “Many patients in their early 50s seek these surgical procedures to tighten the jaw. One of the most important aspects of aging is when we start to notice it around the jawline and we start to have jowls and a loose neck. »
